

International Day for the preservation of the ozone layer

EVENT DATE : 16 – 09 - 2022

The Department of Physics and Electronics, P.R. G.C(A), KKD, observed the International Day for the preservation of the ozone layer on this day that is 16 September 2022. one of the invited resource person Dr M. Ramesh senior scientist the Indian Meteorology Department, Kakinada addresses the gathering about the dire need of protecting our globe from the human activities which leads to pollute the environment and nature another resource person Dr T. Manikyala Rao Scientific Assistant Indian Meteorology Department Kakinada presented his PowerPoint on various layers of the Earth's atmosphere, the pros and causes of the depletion of ozone layer at the North Pole, Antarctica. He also educated the students on the statistical data observations of Earth's atmosphere, and the opportunities at Indian Meteorology Department for doing students projects on ozone layer and Meteorology. Respected principal Dr.B.V. Tirupanyam, motivated the students and staff for their social responsibility in protecting the natural resources. He also made all the participants to give an oath for their commitment and activities towards sustainable growth in the fields of research and development and to adopt a global friendly lifestyle.

Invited talk by Dr. T. Manikyala Rao Scientific Assistant I M D., Kakinada

